OTHER – PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AT MEETINGS – POLICY

Mr. Spidalieri opened a discussion about having public input at meetings and expressed that he feels it's important to have public input but often times questions get the agenda business off track. Mr. Spidalieri suggested a set time for questions. Commissioner Samide added that a policy would be good to have in place that not only sets a time but sets a time limit. Commissioner Rear expressed that he had provided a copy of what the Chardon School Board had done to Mr. Spidalieri and that he has also spoken with the Prosecutor about setting a policy that doesn't interfere with first amendment rights. Mr. Rear noted that the Clerk had solicited copies of policy from other counties that have been sent to Ms. LaChapelle as well. There was discussion about options that might include allowing time in the beginning to address questions about items on the agenda for that day and then a set time for questions about other issues at the end of the meeting, with a limit on the number of times someone can speak on a topic.

Commissioners' Journal

Local resident Walter "Skip" Claypool made a comment using NOACA as an example for participation, asking that the public be given reasonable time to be part of the dialogue.

OTHER – MENTAL HEALTH

Local resident Jeff Klein expressed concern over what he had learned about the Mental Health Board since his daughter has special needs and gets up every day and fights just to be equal to everyone else. Mr. Klein asked each Commissioner to tell him what they were going to do about Mr. Adams. Mr. Spidalieri stated that he stands firm in his request of Mr. Adams and the Board to resign, adding his requests of the Board for review of options by the Prosecutor's Office. Mr. Spidalieri voiced his disgust over the additional benefits that Mr. Adams receives including a county vehicle and payment of a life insurance policy. Mr. Rear expressed his compassion for special needs pointing to his terms on the school board and being married to a special needs educator, adding that he had submitted a letter to Mr. Adams asking him to come before the Board and explain the request that was done prior to Mr. Spidalieri bringing about his requests in session. Mr. Rear voiced concern over the levy renewal on the ballot and if it's defeated the impact that it could have on those that require services. Mr. Rear briefly addressed the issue of Mental Health Board members that are appointed by the Commissioners come as a recommendation from the Mental Health Department and have requirements in order to serve on that Board. Discussion occurred about the funding for the Youth Center being redirected to come directly from the Commissioners' Office to Ravenwood instead of through Mental Health and about some spacing concerns at the center. Commissioner Samide added that Mental Health and related issues are a serious issue in this county and expressed concern over the defeat of the levy. Ms. Samide expressed that she felt Mr. Adam's offer to return his salary to a lower level is a little too late, noting what was regularly asked of the employees of this county. Ms. Samide brought up that at the time of the previous renewal the Mental Health Board wanted to add on an increase, but that the Commissioners made them split the addition out from the renewal in order to give the voters an option, upon which they defeated the increase. Mr. Klein voiced concern over the Auditor not bringing these salary increases to the Commissioners, to which discussion about how the request had come through the financials for an increase in funding to cover the costs of a new employee. Mr. Rear stated that while there is an election going on and people are picking sides, but that he knows in the past the Auditor has challenged Judges and Elected Officials about their salary schedules and has paid a price for those challenges, and it becomes a situation of darned if you do, darned if you don't. Mr. Rear stated that the Board has virtually no discretion over other Elected Officials except over the total payroll budget. Mr. Petrizelo stated that there is a procedural problem in the Commissioners' Office citing again the need for a retire/rehire policy, and the need to set policy for Boards that the Commissioners make appointments to, following which discussion continued about what appointments the Commissioners have control over and on which Boards, noting that the Prosecutor's Office is working on the options the Board has with Mental Health.
