ADVOCATES FOR RECOVERY

Marci Mondello-King representing Advocates for Recovery explained that three years ago her husband Phil King addressed the infiltrating drug issue by starting the Opiate Task Force which since has been taken over by Judge Terri Stupica whom has done a fantastic job. Ms. King expressed that law enforcement has been doing a good job at trying to get the drugs under control, and Mr. Michelson is working with patients at the Safety Center, along with Lisa Brown helping with pain management and new dimensions at University Hospitals. A drug treatment facility is usually six months to one year of pure structured treatment and then once completed they are on their own into the community. The task force discovered that one piece was missing and that is the final step in treatment, that is a sober, "¾" house or a transitional house, and currently there is not one in Geauga County. Ms. King explained that these houses are for people who have been through the treatment program, with requirements of having a job, participate in community service, with life skills classes taught to help them re-adjust into the community. Ms. King stated that drugs or alcohol are not permitted in the house and residents will be tested and if tested positive will be removed. Ms. King stated that the fundraiser being held is to raise funds to purchase a house and help with maintenance of the residence. Ms. King explained that Ashtabula County has a transitional house for women called Opal House, which has a waiting list; they are looking to put a transitional house for men in Geauga County. Ms. King noted that both Senators John Eklund and Capri Cafaro are in support of this project and are not only standing behind but also trying to assist with funding resources. Ms. King stated that she is not asking for funding from the Commissioners, but instead for their support and to pass along invitations and posters to spread the word about the fundraiser. Commissioner Rear wanted it clarified that this transitional house for men was not just for drug addiction, but also for other types of addictions including alcohol. Commissioner Samide inquired how they were going to financially support having this house, to which Ms. King explained that they are trying to raise funds to purchase a house or land and build a structure, but that each resident will be required to pay rent that will cover expenses but that funds will be needed to maintain the home. There was discussion about possible locations in the County and what the needs for that location would be based on the needs of the residents in the facility with a possible location of Middlefield.
